

Call For Papers: Measuring Management Conference

The World Management Survey (www.worldmanagementsurvey.com) began in 2004. It is an interdisciplinary research project aimed at the study of the causes and consequences of management practices using detailed firm-level management data collected across a variety of establishments, countries and industries.

To build on this rapidly expanding research field we would like to organize a two-day conference on the measurement and analysis of management practices at Harvard Business School from about 9am Thursday 15th May to about 4pm on Friday 16th May 2014.

We would like to invite papers on measuring management practices across firms and countries, or related topics including on the impact of management on firm performance and factors explaining differences in management practices across firms, countries and industries.

Funding will be provided for 2-nights and travel expenses of up to $400 domestically and $1000 internationally.

Please send papers to Patricia Luna at luna@stanford.edu by January 15th 2014. Accepted papers will be notified by January 31st 2014

Nick Bloom (Stanford)

Raffaella Sadun (Harvard Business School)

John Van Reenen (LSE and Centre for Economic Performance)